

Habitat for Humanity House Tour Dinners

Perry County has an active Habitat for Humanity chapter that has been successful in building new homes or rehabilitating existing homes for low-income families. One of this group's annual fund raisers is an elegant course meal served in one of the area's outstanding homes. For many years, Perry Valley Grange has been invited and has accepted the invitation to prepare and donate the food for one of the seatings of this meal.

On the first weekend of December 2008, the Grange prepared food for approximately 35 persons plus servers attending the Habitat for Humanity dinner held in the home of Malinda Anderson, New Bloomfield. The Grange was again pleased to share some of its culinary expertise and volunteers to support this worthy cause. Proceeds of the dinner will be used to finance the acquisition of materials for upcoming home building projects for deserving families.

The meals provided by the Grange featured a roast turkey and ham dinner with all the traditional holiday trimmings.
