Millerstown History Program

Millerstown is the oldest town in Perry County and filled with history of the early colonial settlers, the building and demise of the Juniata Division of the Pennsylvania Canal, railroads, highways, industries, churches and schools.   At the June 2019 meeting of Perry Valley Grange, local historian David Patton (right) spoke and showed a PowerPoint program on some of the fascinating and often little known stories of the area.   A mural highlighting the town's history, illustrated above, is permanently displayed in the town square.
