

New Year's Pork & Sauerkraut Dinner January 1, 2011

An old Pennsylvania Dutch custom says that eating pork & sauerkraut on New Year's Day will insure good luck throughout the coming year. If that's the case, then almost 250 people who ate at the Grange on January 1st should have a great 2011.

Despite the cold and snow, two good Samaritan volunteers at the dinner even helped with changing a flat tire for a woman needing assistance
